Collaborated with "Project Baala" for a menstrual hygiene session

The menstrual hygiene session at Chhalera Bagh successfully empowered 100 women and young girls with essential knowledge, skills, and resources. By promoting sustainable practices and providing reusable pads, we contributed to a healthier and more environmentally conscious community.

Raised awareness on substance abuse through street play

On May 20th, in collaboration with "I Can Do It," the Ishya Foundation organized a street play in Chhalera, reached 200 community members. The play effectively highlighted the dangers of substance abuse, sparking discussions and empowering locals to take action against this issue.

Through powerful performances, the play depicted scenarios illustrating how individuals, including children, are influenced by the habits of their fathers and the subsequent dangers posed to their health and well-being.

Street Play for World No Tobacco Day

Celebration of Mothers Day and Laughter Day

The event was designed to promote joy and positivity. Activities such as jokes and mimicry, aimed to foster a sense of camaraderie and light-heartedness among the participants.

Mother's Day was celebrated by encouraging children to make sandwiches for their mothers. The event not only honoured motherhood but also strengthened familial bonds within the community.

Sustainable Initiatives

Our collective efforts in the recent waste collection drive have earned us a special recognition from One Step Greener NGO. We've been awarded a certificate for the submission of 13 kg of dry waste. By participating in this initiative, we've collectively saved one tree and conserved a remarkable 338 liters of water.
